Many people use RSS Feeds to syndicate their blog or website information on the internet. Now if you have your own RSS feed you can use it to syndicate your blog to the new Amazon Kindle Network . This is an amazing opportunity for any web site publisher. Note that you will not make any money from this unless you really offer some good quality content, but the point still stands that this is a huge opportunity for bloggers worldwide.

Amazon has been spending huge amounts to promote their newest release of the popular Kindle Ebook Reader . This is a great product and I am sure that there are already many thousands of users on the system, so go ahead and get registered for free and see if you can become the next e-publisher to make it big!
